George Washington The American Indian chief looked scornfully at the soldiers on the field before him. How foolish it was to fight as they did. Forming their perfect battle lines out in the open standing shoulder to shoulder in their bright red uniforms. The British soldiers did not break rank, even when braves fired at them from under the safe cover of the forest. The slaughter continued for two hours. By then 1,000 of the 1,459 British soldiers were killed or wounded, while only 30 of the French and Indian warriors firing at them were injured. One by one the chief's marksmen continued to shoot the mounted British officers until only one remained.

"Quick, let your aim be certain and he dies," the chief commanded. The warriors leveled their rifles at the last officer on horseback. Round after round was aimed at this one man. Twice the officer's horse was shot out from under him. Ten, twelve, thirteen rounds were fired by the sharpshooters. Still, the officer remained unhurt.

The native warriors seldom missed their mark. The chief suddenly realized that a mighty power must be shielding this man. "Stop firing!" he commanded. "This one is under the special protection of the Great Spirit." A brave standing by added, "I had seventeen clear shots at him...and after all could not bring him to the ground. This man was not born to be killed by a bullet."

That evening, as the last of the wounded were being cared for, the officer noticed an odd tear in his coat. It was a bullet hole! He rolled up his sleeve and looked at his arm directly under the hole. There was no mark on his skin. Amazed, he took off his coat and found three more holes where bullets had passed through his coat but stopped before they reached his body.

The young lieutenant colonel later wrote his brother to confirm that he was still very much alive. "...By the all-powerful dispensations of Providence I have been protected beyond all human probability or expectation; for I had four bullets through my coat, and two horses shot under me yet escaped unhurt, although death was leveling my companions on every side of me!"

This battle, part of the French and Indian war, was fought on July 9, 1755, near a fort that is now the city of Pittsburgh. The twenty-three-year-old officer went on to become the commander in chief of the Continental Army and the first president of the United States. In all the years that followed in his long career, this man, George Washington, was never once wounded in battle.

Fifteen years later, in 1770, George Washington returned to the same Pennsylvania woods. A respected Indian chief, heard that Washington was in the area, sat down with Washington, and face-to-face over a council fire, he told Washington the following: "I am a chief and ruler over my tribes. My influences extends to the waters of the great lakes and to the far blue mountains. I have traveled a long and weary way to see the young warrior of great battle.... Seeing you were under the special guardianship of the Great Spirit, we immediately ceased to fire at you. ..there is something bids me speak in the voice of prophecy: "Listen! The Great Spirit protects that man, (points to Washington), and guides his destinies- he will become the chief of nations, and a people yet born will hail him founder of a mighty empire. I am come to pay homage to the man who is the particular favorite of Heaven, and who can never die in battle."

A Look Back

How great it was to be back in our building!! Each smiling face made my heart happy, and each hug was a treasure long over due. Can't say enough about my amazing Church Family!

June brought a special celebration and day of sweet memories on Pastor Brian's earth birthday. Many of us shared different remembrances of Pastor Brian and the amazing legacy he imparted in each of us. Of course we couldn't leave without partaking of some ice-cream!

June 14th was flag day, and we worshipped our Father for this great land called America! God has pre-ordained our country to greatness. Even, and especially in the mist of turmoil, it is important to remember that our founding fathers established this nation on prayer and the Word.

Father's Day almost snuck up on us this year! Where did April and May go? We had to quickly order Father's Day gifts and plan a service for all of our dads. My prayer is always, that dad's will know how important they are to the family unit and what a great influence they are in their children's lives!! The Bible states, "And He will turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, And he hearts of the children to their fathers..."Malachi 4:6

Happy to be back in Church

A Look Ahead

Summer is in full swing and more and more establishments are opening up for activities. It is so nice to be able to sit down at a restaurant to eat.

Pastor Joslyn and VCF staff have spent hours praying about "the plan" to add services back to our schedule, and the timing to do so. Now is the time!! Men's and Ladies classes started up this morning at 9:30!! John Fults will be teaching the men on "Building your Relationship with Jesus", Tammy Uber will be teaching the ladies from Isaiah 61 and Luke 4:18 & 19.

Our Wednesday night, mid-week services will resume this week, on July 8th! The adults will be meeting in the Sanctuary at 7:00 and the children will be with Pastor Melissa in His House. Holy Spirit has some exciting times ahead for VCF. Miracles, signs, and wonders are on the horizon, come with expectant hearts.

The second half of 2020 will be exceeding, abundantly better than the first 6 months. And all the people said, "AMEN"!!
